

The architectural floor plan illustrates the layout of the 'Haus der Architekten' in Berlin. It features two primary building wings: a larger, more complex wing on the left and a smaller, more linear wing on the right. The wings are connected by a central corridor system. The plan shows detailed room divisions, including individual offices or apartments, and several stairwells. A north arrow is located in the bottom right corner, indicating the orientation of the building. The drawing uses black lines on a white background to represent walls, doors, and furniture.
